Raccoon Wins At North Shore!

When the Illinois Office of Education invited school students to vote on a new state animal, North Shore's Middle School held a convention with political parties for several animals. After the votes were in, the raccoon was the winner. The votes will be sent to Springfield for statewide tallying.

Tom Doar

Brief Encounters with Administrative Heads

Lower School's new Head arrived in Winnetka in August, coming to North Shore from St. Paul Academy and Summit School in St. Paul. He left strong ties - ties that began with his own student days at St. Paul Academy. (His father also graduated from SPA.) Tom Doar graduated with the last all boy class before the school merged with the all girls' Summit School.

Because of his relationship to the school, he was sought out to return as a teacher for a term, though he had just finished a degree in political science. It was just enough time to develop a commitment to education. "Involvement with the kids was very rewarding and it convinced me to continue teaching" he remarked.

Engaging and warm, Mr. Doar can be found on the playing field in games with the young boys and girls, in his math class in Middle School and anywhere in Lower School. A man who relishes problem solving and the challenges of administration, he has quickly and easily become entrenched at North Shore. He reports happily about the parent at Go-To-School night last month who was astonished to discover that the "Tom Doar" her son talked about so regularly and eagerly was not a classmate but the new Head of Lower School. The family had been close to setting up an overnight!

The other half of the Doar household consists of his wife, Sheila, or "Mouse" as she is known to the world. Mouse can be glimpsed in the November 17 issue of People Magazine which reviews her activities as president of her own greeting card company, Mullage.

Julie Hall

A strong teaching tradition runs in Julie Hall's family. The vivacious Head of Middle School is the third generation of her family to be in education. Her grandfather taught at Northwestern, her father at Colgate and her mother at Swarthmore. And today Mrs. Hall's oldest daughter, representing the fourth generation, is a Head Start teacher in Montana.

With such a heritage Mrs. Hall's career path was a natural one. A childhood full of music, books, theater and a love of the out-of-doors transferred to piano playing, cello playing, enjoying concerts and theater. Added to her many lively interests developed throughout the years are camping and gardening. Middle Schoolers will attest to her outdoorsmanship after the sixth grade's September trip to Turkey Run State Park.

Aside from teaching and commitments to family (the Halls have two children in college besides the daughter in Montana), Mrs. Hall has always sought challenge and creativity. A unique family tradition developed by Mrs. Hall is her original family story book which she has written each Christmas for some twenty years including everything from limericks to fairy tales to sonnets.

"Learning is an adventure I relish for myself and like to share with children," she states. "I find the responsibility for directing and stimulating young lives awesome, exhilarating and rewarding. I respond to the qualities which are more widespread in children than in adults - curiosity, creativity, frankness, honesty, affection, and a sense of fun." And with this declaration she reflects her own professional qualities.

Larry Chiappetta

As Head of Upper School Larry Chiappetta leads his division with quiet expertise. His role combines the administration of Upper School and the college counseling of juniors and seniors which he smoothly meshes together with his finely tuned organizational skills.

Dr. Chiappetta graduated from Manhattan College and earned his Ph.D. in pharmacology at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. His plans at that time were for a career in research work. What influenced the change of direction toward education? "I entered education because I enjoyed working with adolescents in a local church group in New York City and decided that was what I wanted to do with my life," he remarked. He taught at Beaver Country Day School in Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts, and pursued a Masters in Counseling Psychology at Boston University.

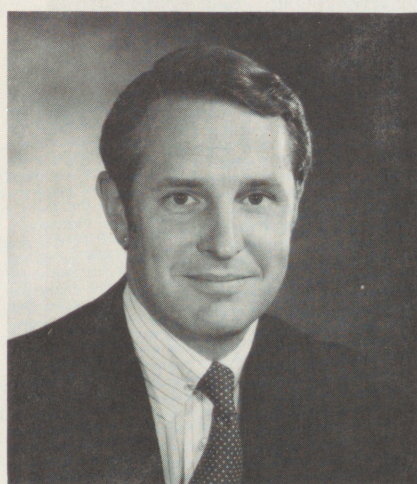

"It was the challenging position, more responsibility, the solid faculty, warm family-style school community, and the strong academic reputation of the school in the East," he related, that attracted him to North Shore Country Day.

A scholarly administrator and compassionate counselor, Dr. Chiappetta values most the individual relationships he has with students and adults and watching the personal and academic growth of the students.

When summer rolls around, he and his family can be found in New Hampshire. An outdoor enthusiast, Dr. Chiappetta's one wish would be to have the time in his schedule to work with team sports at North Shore.

His wife, Vickie, is a Lower and Middle School science teacher at North Shore. Completing their household are two daughters, Amy, 4 years old, and Sarah, 1 1/2 years old.

CAMPUS REPORT

Avery Named President of Board

Cameron S. Avery, a partner with Bell, Boyd, Lloyd, Haddad and Burns law firm, has been elected president of the Board of Directors for North Shore Country Day. A member of the Board for four years, he and his wife, Anne, a former anthropology and psychology teacher at North Shore, have two children attending the school.

Serving on the Board as representatives from arms of the school are: Mrs. Donald S. Perkins, President of Alumni Association; Mrs. Richard C. Cooper, President of Parents' Association; Mrs. Peter Perkins, President of the Woman's Board; and Richard P. Hall, Headmaster.

Enrollment Climbs

School opened this Fall with an enrollment upswing topping the last three years. Two sections have been added to the 7th and 8th grades to accommodate the increasing interest in Middle School and inquiries are greater than ever, according to Mrs. Carol Watrous, Director of Admissions.

"The School's growing reputation for excellence, its stability and maintaining of standards, the new headmaster and the quality of the faculty he has attracted are influencing parents today," Mrs. Watrous stated.

Long Range Planning Committee Meets

Representatives from the Board of Directors, from the faculty and from the student body will meet throughout the school year to discuss future growth of the School. Under the chairmanship of Harold H. Hines, Jr., the committee will consider financial and academic needs, faculty development and building and ground needs. Also on the committee are Dean David Wylie, of the School of Education at Northwestern, Lawrence Howe, Class of '38, and Bruce McPherson, Professor of Education, University of Illinois, Circle Campus.

Students Experience Interim Week

There were trips, activities, and investigations for 8th-12th graders during Interim Week in November. The out-of-classroom time and space week offered 12 subject areas for student selection. On the Interim Week list were: London Theatre, two Chicago Theater groups, Washington Government Seminar, Future Shock, Recreational Programs for Handicapped, Law Week, Computers, Auto Mechanics, Film Criticism, Chicagoland Film, Film Making, and Grassroots Politics. Individual internships with clinics, hospitals, law offices, veterinarians, and schools were also devised by some students. When it was all over, reports and exhibits of each group were shared with the student body.

North Shore's 7th year evaluation time arrived in October with a visiting team headed by William Harris (left) Headmaster of St. Paul Academy and Summit School. It was smiles all around as he wrapped up the project with North Shore's Headmaster, Richard P. Hall.

George Hanford, President of the College Board (center), pauses with Lawrence Chiappetta (left), and Headmaster Richard P. Hall on a fall visit to North Shore. Mr. Hanford, a former teacher and treasurer at North Shore spent a day addressing students, holding a faculty workshop and speaking to parents.

Diller St. Theater Opens on Campus

The Diller St. Theater of The North Shore Country Day School opened this Fall as a new performing arts program on the North Shore. Throughout the year the program will offer evenings of dance, drama, music, comedy, and film in the School's auditorium.

Named after a long-gone thoroughfare which once crossed the campus in front of the auditorium, the Diller St. Theater opened in September with a concert for cello and piano by Marc and Katherine Johnson. Marc is a member of the nationally acclaimed Vermeer Quartet and Katherine is a concert pianist presently teaching at the Music Center of the North Shore.

November brought "Pat Paulsen Looks at the 80's", followed by December's "Second City". Scheduled for January 11 is "Music from Oberlin".

The Diller St. Theater is produced by Roger Shipley who has been a member of North Shore's drama department for the past 10 years and has been active in theater on the North Shore as a designer, director and producer. He holds a degree from Oberlin College.

Serving on the theater's advisory board are: Suzanne McCormick, President of the Chicago Film Festival, Bruce Jarchow, Second City cast member and graduate of NSCDS, Kalman Novak, Director of the Music Center of the North Shore, Richard Golden, Class of '44, trustee of Winnetka and president of LPM Parts and Service of Illinois, Mim Golden, member of the Woman's Board of the Winnetka Community House, Richard Marx, president of Dick Marx and Associates, producers of TV and radio commercials, and Richard Cooper, member of the school's board of directors, Susan Stone, school parent, Vincent Allison, Director of Music, Lew Davis, faculty member, and Headmaster Richard P. Hall.

The auditorium facilities are also available for rental to local organizations.

Woman's Board Sets Auction

Saturday, February 28 is the date set for the Auction by the Woman's Board. The new benefit promises an auction table with travel opportunities, antiques, services, and a wealth of exciting items. The fun begins at 6:00 PM in the Boys' Gym. Save the date.

Music Major Curriculum Hits High Note

Four highly talented young musicians are enrolled in North Shore's Music Major curriculum, a program offered through the combined faculties of the Music Center of the North Shore and NSCDS.

In Middle School are the Fleishman sisters, Lana, in 7th grade, and Tamar, in 8th grade. Lana is a pianist studying under Emilio Del Rosario at the Music Center and is the youngest child to give her own performance at Northwestern's Ludkin Hall. She recently won the American Society of Musicians Contest, Junior Division.

Tamar has been playing the violin for over six years and studies with Samuel Magad, co-concert master of the Chicago Symphony. As winner of the Chicago Symphony Youth Auditions last year, Tamar was a soloist at 8 performances of the Chicago Symphony Youth Concerts. She is a member of the Northbrook Symphony and plays with the North Shore Youth Orchestra (for high school students).

The girls who have played together since they were 5 and 6 years old have been soloists at City of Hope Benefits as well as numerous other events.

Svetlana Belsky is a sophomore who left her native Kiev only 1 1/2 years ago and she and her parents now live in Chicago. An accomplished pianist, she began lessons when she was 7 years old. Throughout her years as a student musician in Kiev, Svetlana had the honor through selection by audition of giving performances in Kiev's Ukraine Hall and Philharmonic Hall, as well as on TV and radio. She is now studying with Mr. Del Rosario. Her favorite composers are Bach and the Romantics.

Jory Vinikour entered North Shore's senior class this year as a pianist in the music curriculum. Though Jory began lessons when he was 9, it wasn't until he was a freshman, three years ago, that he became a serious student of the piano. He, too, studies under Mr. Del Rosario, and has played concertos with school orchestras while in high school. The piano is his life commitment and he hopes to attend either the Curtis or Juilliard Schools of Music. And how does Jory like North Shore? He answers, "North Shore has changed my attitude in a lot of positive ways. It's a school conducive to good habits."

The entire school community benefits from the talents of these four students who perform frequently at Morning Exercise. And the performances are rare treats.

North Shore Authors' Corner Grows

In response to the BULLETIN'S invitation to alumni authors, the School now boasts the following additions to the "Authors' Corner":

A Pastoral Counseling Casebook, by C. Knight Aldrich, M.D. ('31) and Carl Nighswonger, B.D., S.T.M.

Capitalism Can Survive in a No-Growth Economy, by Herbert N. Woodward ('29)

The Human Dilemma, by Herbert N. Woodward ('29)

Desperate Diplomacy by Norman B. Ferris ('49)

Growing Up Small, by Kate Gilbert Phifer, ('54)

"Themes in Modern Social History and the Politics of Aesthetics: The Case of France", an article by David Strong ('64) in The New Paltz Historical Review, Vol. II 1980

A painting by Stokely Webster ('30) given to the Headmaster's house. His paintings are currently hung in the Smithsonian Institution, The Philips Collection (Washington D.C.), The Indianapolis Museum of Art, the Museum of the City of New York, the Fitchburg Art Museum, Illinois State Museum, Northwestern University Library and the Newark Museum.

Alumni Notes

Carolyn Case Norem ('22) (Mrs. Lawrence E.) visited her younger daughter and family in Bolton, Ontario last August and in September saw her older daughter in Littleton, Colorado. "Much excitement both places, as always. At age 75 I feel much younger when I am with children and grandchildren", she writes.

Elsie Watkins Weeks ('27) (Mrs. Frances D.) had a lovely trip to Australia, New Zealand, New Guinea, Hawaii and Bora-Bora recently with the Ravinia Women's Board.

Francis R. Stanton ('27) played in the National Seniors Clay Court Tennis Championship Tournament in Charlottesville, Va. in September.

Virginia Honnold Houck ('28) (Mrs. Leslie E.) is still living in the "old homestead" near Clarendon Hills after 42 years. Her son Fred, is a jeweler in Amherst, Mass., her granddaughter, Charlotte, is a junior at the U. of Mass. and grandson, David, is a sophomore at Winchendon School in Mass. Her daughter, Aimee Freedland is in the insurance business in Coral Gables, Florida.

Dr. Allen M. Ferry ('30) is retired and has joined the condominium dwellers in Falls Church, Va.

Jeannette Hill Vincent ('30) (Mrs. Craig S.) writes that the 50th reunion was very rewarding. She's had a good year playing the accordion in the Trio de Taos with other senior citizens, and she plans to spend Christmas with Larry Wells Vincent and family in Venezuela.

Eleanor Janney Kinsolving ('32) (Mrs. C. J.) has recently returned from a trip East visiting her brother Rr. Adm. F. E. Janney and wife in Washington D.C., seeing Barby Hobart Colgate ('32). They are hoping to have a 50th reunion in 1982 for their class.

Richard H. Alschuler ('33) retired this Fall and is involved in a number of volunteer community activities with time out for travel.

Henrietta Boal Moore ('33) (Mrs. Philip W. Jr.) lives in Chicago where she is active with the Chicago Gray Panthers. Her son, Tom ('64), has moved to Philadelphia with his family after four years in Paris. He is executive editor of "Philadelphia Magazine".

Deborah Butler Balis ('33) (Mrs. C. Wanton) has five married children and eight grandchildren. The oldest grandchild is 19 and the youngest 3 months. She writes, "I loved NSCDS for my many years and was so interested in the list of marriages!"

William B. Eisendrath ('31) is still on the ranch at Elizabeth, Colorado, and has two sons in high school. He relates that his area is almost suburban now with much of the remaining farm land going for real estate development, with many people "discovering" Colorado.

Sally Korrady Helwig ('35) (Mrs. Russell C.) has gone back to college to "soak up some more music" at Lynchburg College where daughter Kate, is teaching. She also teaches at Sweet Briar. She writes, "Life here on the farm is beautiful but rugged for a city girl from Winnetka!"

Margot Webbe Barber ('36) and her husband, A. Harris ('36) have two children who are NSCDS graduates. Gail Barber Sykes has two children and lives in Ada, Michigan. She runs a farm nursery school with 150 children and umpteen animals; Bruce lives in San Francisco, where he is an officer with the Crocker Bank.

Miriam Fetcher Steel ('33) (Mrs. William W.) and husband, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with a three week trip to France in June and will visit Biff and his family at Christmas in the Ivory Coast where they will be for 3 years. Daughter, Polly, lives an hour away so they see her often.

Catherine Johnson ('37) (Mrs. Alexander C.) had a family reunion last summer at their summer home in Ontario, the first time together since 1976. They have 3 grandsons and 1 granddaughter.

Eleanore M. Zeiss Bradway ('39) (Mrs. Bruce M.) and husband still have their Baskin-Robbins Store, and enjoy tennis and bowling as well as playing with 2 young grandchildren. Their children are all out of the nest.

Roger Fisher ('39) a professor at Harvard, conducted a class in the summer's Program of Instruction for Lawyers titled "Negotiations: Theory and Practice" which was one of the most popular of the 28 courses offered.

Babette Bird Lent ('40) (Mrs. Richard W.) and her attorney husband, spent three weeks in Maine last summer with lots of sailing. Elder son, Ryck, is publishing an area magazine in Worcester, Mass., and younger son, Chris, is married and working toward his master's in interior design at the U. of Mass.

Lois Mason Towers ('40) (Mrs. Charles G.) lives happily in Beaufort, S.C. and tries "to keep track of the outside world but it seems less and less important!"

Cynthia O. Harris, M.D. ('40) has for a year been serving with great interest on the Social Effects Committee of IFAC, the International Federation of Automatic Control (read robots, computers, etc.) She also serves on the advisory committee for the Peace Corps, and continues to work at the Gestalt Institute of Cleveland.

James L. Oakes ('41) a U.S. Circuit Judge at Brattleboro, Vermont, was awarded an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws by Suffolk University on June 8, 1980 at the commencement ceremony of their Law School in Boston.

John E. Miller ('41) received an honorary doctoral degree in business administration from Curry College in Milton, Mass. for his contributions to industry and the community. He is president of Miller and Co., the world's largest foundry supply company and serves on the boards of directors of Big Brothers of Chicago, The University Club of Chicago, Pine Manor College and the Winchendon School.

R. Warren Howe ('41) has recently moved from Geneva, Illinois after 23 years there and after 32 years with Belden Corp. moved to New Canaan, Ct. where he is working for Windings Inc. of Golden Bridge, N.Y.

Eleanor Metcalf Childs ('42) (Mrs. Eleanor W.) plans to return to Winnetka in January to live permanently.

William L. Jacobs ('43) is living in Crystal Lake and working for UOP (Signal Companies, Inc.). He and his wife have four children.

Anne Jeffris Miller ('46) (Mrs. Lynn H.) has a new grandson who will be one in January. He lives in Portland, Oregon and sees Lee Holliday Hascall ('46) who moved there recently. "Texas is a great place, y'll come!"

Bain Murray ('45) traveled to China and Japan last summer.

Barbara Favill Marshall ('46) (Mrs. Irl H., Jr.) has recently embarked on a three year term as President of the Women's Association of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Samuel A. Wallace III ('47) in reviewing the ALUMNI DIRECTORY discovered another alumnus in Yuma, Arizona, Jerry Hunt '57 and they have had a good chat about NSCDS.

Julie Fentress Bacon ('49) (Mrs. Robert H., Jr.) announces the marriage of her daughter, Marily, to Jay R. Scanlon on May 17, 1980. They live in Quincey, Ma.

It was a busman's holiday for Stuart Rogers, ('74), above, when he volunteered to program the School's new computer last summer. A programmer analyst with John Nuveen and Co. for two years, Stuart contributed time valued between $8,000 and $10,000 and also trained two students to operate the equipment. Stuart is currently at Tufts with a scholarship to combine a master's and doctoral degree in theater history.

John H. Roberts ('49) sold the C. A. Roberts Co. last April but continues as president and C.E.O. Daughter, Juli, graduated from Denver University last year and son, Murray, is sophomore at Northern Arizona University.

Rev. Michael J. Blecker ('49), president of St. John's University, is on an administrative sabbatical to do research in medieval history at the University of California at Berkeley.

Norman Ferris ('49) is serving a second 2 year term as president of the Tennessee Conference of American Association of University Professors and serves on the Tennessee Committee for the Humanities which awards grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities. He is currently on leave from the Department of History at Middle Tennessee State University to write a biography of William Henry Seward, Secretary of State under Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson.

Clifford W. Boram, Jr. ('50) has written a book, OKSAPMIN CHILDREN, which has been accepted by the Human Relations Area Files, Inc. Books program, in New Haven, Connecticut.

Mary Fenn Heely ('50) (Mrs. Laurence S. Jr.) has lived in Greenwich, Ct., for 18 years where her husband had his own company. Daughter Molly has graduated from Skidmore and Anne is still in college. Mary is working with retarded and handicapped children through the Pegasus Horse program.

Holly Cummings Jensen ('53) (Mrs. Karl E.) and her husband are directors and owners of a new private school in Redmond, Washington: Carden Academy. They started with 8 students in September and now have 17 and still growing. They teach new (old) concept of fundamentals in all areas: manners, morals, patriotism, and use NSCDS as a guide especially concerning parent involvement. "It's like an old-fashioned country school, challenging, exciting and fun!"

Judy Atwood Wright ('54) (Mrs. Kenneth T.) writes that daughters Jennifer and Kim are in college, Cammie is at New Trier East, and son Kenny at Joseph Sears. "We think often of the wonderful reunion last fall - 1979. Our life is busy and blessed."

Alice H. Suter ('55) married John F. Hardesty, Jr. last April. He has a Ph.D. from the University of Maryland and is working for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Ann Dick Dashe ('57) (Mrs. Jerome) and family will spend Christmas with her sister, Betsy Dick Osborn and her family in Libertyville, as well as with her brother, Strat and wife, Faith Kelley Dick, who live in Lake Forest.

Ginny Speakman Tips ('57) (Mrs. Bradley) and family live in Northfield with 3 sons, 10, 12, and 14, who are into the usual sports scene and competing against children of other North Shoreites. The mothers enjoy chatting on the sidelines and reminiscing. Best to all our class!

Hughes S. Bowles ('58) is married with one son and living on the Near North side of Chicago. He is manager of the Riverside Plaza Office of E. F. Hutton and Co.

Elise ("Trink") Smith Chambers ('59) (Mrs. William) was in Australia last Spring where her husband gave a lecture tour on Sports Medicine. She "loved being down under-what a marvelous place". She had a visit from Mary Allen Carson ('59) last summer and says, "she looks as good as she did when she was NSCDS May Queen."

Alice Wilder Heaphy ('60) (Mrs. Henry O.) lives in Leverett, Mass. raising two boys, Matthew, 5 and Stephen, 9. She sees Estelle Miller Cashman ('60) and her girls quite often.

Chip and Lynn (Wavering) Shotwell ('61, '60) have their daughter, Molly, enrolled in 6th grade at NSCDS, and "Mrs. Wilson's dancing school and the whole business sure brings back memories". Lynn is involved with the Glenview Historical Society and with Evanston Hospital Auxiliary.

James F. Wilson ('61) is married and living in his old family home in Northfield.

Christina Strong Hirsch ('62) (Mrs. Ronald H.) are living in San Juan, Puerto Rico for three years where her husband is with Citibank. Their third child, second daughter, Kathryn, was born last February.

Hazel M. Cornell,
Former Teacher,
Dies In Florida

The Alumni Office received word of the death of Hazel M. Cornell who died on September 4, 1980, at the age of 97.

Miss Cornell was a much loved teacher from the earliest days at North Shore and was head of the Girls' Department, which today would be considered Dean of Girls. The above photograph can be found in the 1924 MIRROR which was dedicated to her "with sincerest appreciation for her tireless efforts in the interests of the School." She was preceded in death by her younger sister, Margaret, who also taught for many years at North Shore.
